JOINT STATEMENT BY THEATRES IN SYDNEY

This joint statement by theatres in Sydney acknowledges the significant and specific impacts that COVID-19 pandemic has had on the performing arts industry around the world, and specifically in Sydney. This impact extends to our artists, audiences, employees, partners, donors, funders and other stakeholders.

We recognise the ongoing risk presented by COVID-19 and are committed to operating in a way that ensures the safety and wellbeing of all our stakeholders.

We are committed to maintaining COVID-Safe policies that meet or exceed the conditions set out in Public Health Orders as released from time to time by the NSW Government Health Department.

We believe as a collective of theatres operating in Sydney that consistency across theatre venues provides certainty and security to our artists, audiences, employees, partners, donors, funders, and other stakeholders that is beneficial for the sector as a whole, as well as individual theatre companies and producers, both large and small.

With this in mind, we will maintain a requirement for all visitors to our venues to be fully vaccinated while on-site through to 28 February 2022. Please note that individuals under the age of 16 are excluded from this requirement.

We further require that masks are mandatory while in theatre auditoriums and indoor spaces (except when you are eating and drinking). This is regardless of any movements in the Public Health Order.

Individuals aged between 12 and 15 are also required to wear a fitted mask at all times in our theatres and indoor spaces. Masks are strongly recommended for individuals aged under 12.

These settings will be reviewed, and relevant changes made to our policies as required.

We are thrilled to have reopened and to have the opportunity to once again produce and present exceptional and memorable live theatre on our stages.
